

EPI symptoms can make mealtime difficult

Instead of “No,” most adults with EPI* can say

“I’ll take 3 slices of this,
and only 1 of these:

60K

or

Capsules are not to scale.
Not actual patients.

Ask your doctor about ZENPEP®.

ZENPEP allows most adults to start PERT with just one high-strength 40K or 60K capsule taken with each meal. ZENPEP may help relieve symptoms by improving your ability to digest and absorb the nutrients from the foods you eat.

*Your doctor will calculate your starting dose based on your body weight, symptoms, and types of food you eat.

EPI=exocrine pancreatic insufficiency; K=1,000; PERT=pancreatic enzyme replacement therapy.

What is ZENPEP?

INDICATION

ZENPEP is a prescription medicine used to treat people who cannot digest food normally because their pancreas does not make enough enzymes.

IMPORTANT SAFETY INFORMATION

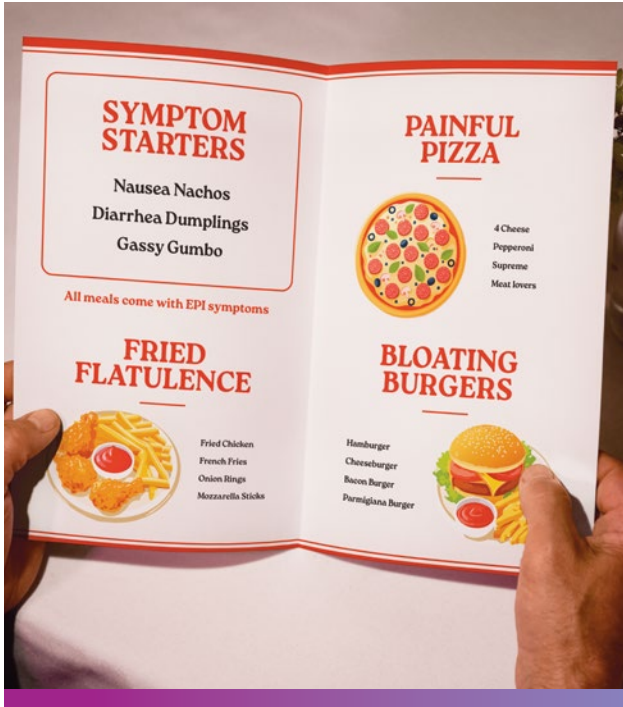

ZENPEP may increase your chance of having a rare bowel disorder called fibrosing colonopathy. Call your doctor if you have unusual or severe stomach area pain, bloating, trouble passing stool, nausea, vomiting, or diarrhea.

Living with EPI symptoms can feel uncertain

Depending on what you eat, uncomfortable symptoms can be hard to navigate

When you have EPI, your body can't digest food normally because your pancreas isn't making enough enzymes

This can lead to a number of uncomfortable symptoms, which may vary based on what you eat.

 Steatorrhea
(loose, oily, foul-smelling stools that are difficult to flush)

 Gas

 Weight loss

 Stomach pain/cramps

 Bloating

 Malaise
(general discomfort)

 Diarrhea

Many symptoms of EPI can be hard to talk about, but being open with your doctor is the first step to finding solutions.

It's important to talk to your doctor about EPI treatment options to help control your symptoms.

Without enough pancreatic enzymes, you may continue to experience symptoms

PERT can help

PERT is a type of prescription medicine for people who can't digest food normally because their pancreas doesn't make enough enzymes.

PERTs can help improve your ability to digest and absorb the food you eat and include enzymes known as lipase, protease, and amylase.

Everyone is different, so your doctor will calculate your individual PERT dose based on you:

- ✓ Body weight
- ✓ EPI symptoms
- ✓ Foods you eat

IMPORTANT SAFETY INFORMATION (cont'd)

Take ZENPEP exactly as your doctor tells you. Do not take more ZENPEP than directed by your doctor.

Always take ZENPEP with a meal or snack. ZENPEP capsules should be swallowed whole. Do not crush or chew the ZENPEP capsules or its contents and do not hold the capsule contents in your mouth.

It's important to take enough PERT to control symptoms

Experts estimate that most adults with EPI can start PERT at 40K to 50K lipase units per meal.

Depending on the response, some people may need more lipase units to help relieve symptoms.

PERT is available in a wide range of capsule strengths. High-strength capsules like ZENPEP 40K or 60K can help you start treatment with a single capsule—while still getting enough enzymes

For most adults a PERT with high-strength 40K or 60K dosing options, with more enzymes per capsule, can help reduce the number of capsules you may need to take.

The most common reason for EPI treatment failure is not taking enough enzymes or not taking them at the right time.

ACG GUIDELINE
at least 40K-50K lipase units per meal*

The American College of Gastroenterology (ACG) is a professional association for gastroenterologists. The ACG guidelines were developed by leading experts to provide clinical guidance with evidence-based recommendations and best practices for gastrointestinal conditions. For patients with EPI and CP, the ACG-recommended adequate dosage of PERT is at least 40K to 50K lipase units per meal—and ZENPEP is the only PERT that meets this guideline in a single capsule.

*No endorsement of any brand or product by the ACG is intended or implied. CP=chronic pancreatitis.
